

Right Appeal to Left

By MARY DAVISON

This letter is addressed to about one hundred university class presidents and campus editors. It is a plea from the "Right Wing" to the "Left Wing," from the old to the young — for reconciliation and understanding. Why not a Peace Conference, that we may re-examine our thoughts and our prejudices? Perhaps we have been wrong in some of our estimates.

I have learned from a very rewarding personal experience that there is an unsuspected area of agreement between Left and Right, and the points of agreement seem to me to be extremely significant. Upon my invitation, the local leader of the Left came to visit me — I am a semi-invalid. I had listened to her remarks on a radio talk program. We agreed on so many matters that a firm friendship has developed. I hope our points of agreement will interest you:

1. We both oppose the draft. The Right has always opposed it on Constitutional grounds.
 2. We both oppose the Vietnam War and any other wars, unless we are attacked.
 3. We both agree that wars have always been created by the wealthiest men in the countries involved — not only by munitions makers, but also by the bankers, who arrange the financing.
 4. We agree that the news media and the educational systems have been sabotaged. Two full generations have been taught things which simply ARE NOT TRUE.
 5. We agree that the Establishment and the System, which we believe are not exactly the same thing, are so thoroughly corrupt that they cannot be reformed. A new order must take over.
 6. We agree on Capitalism, although we have different interpretations of the term. We are trying to fight the same men, but at the same time we argue with one another.
- My friend and I agree that it is the extremist of either side who makes the noise. We agree also that a complete understanding of the monetary system is necessary to any understanding of the balance of our problems.

The American producers, both capital and labor alike, turn out so much in a working lifetime that we should have a truly abundant and debt-free life IF we were permitted to retain our earnings for ourselves, our families and such charities as we might desire to support, whether at home or abroad. But the economic system we have known in the past century is finished. It has been plundered by men who have never produced anything, but who have waxed fat on the earnings and production of others. They have bribed us with our own money, and have protected themselves in their exploitation by making Foundation "grants" to professors and universities, who in turn taught what was in the interest of their "benefactors," regardless of truth or fact.

The subject on which these exploiters wish to avoid discussion is the monetary system — the manner in which money is created and distributed. Abraham Lincoln and the late

John Nance Garner both stated emphatically that if the American people ever learned of this system, there would be immediate revolution. Two Chairmen of the Banking and Currency Committees of Congress have worked and warned against it for years. Their words have gone unheeded. Now the system has collapsed. It cannot be reformed — it must be replaced.

At this time the very men who managed this disaster are making a determined effort to establish another system, where the looting will continue on a world-wide basis. This is the heritage three generations of producers leave to the young, who might, if prepared by knowledge and truth, take steps to manage it. It is a necessary first step in taking part in government.

Recently a liberal group of influential Members of the U.S. Senate, led by Senator Frank Church of Idaho, came to an astounding realization. During debate on the foreign aid bill, Senator Church discovered that two years ago Congress had granted a Charter for a Corporation known as the Overseas Private Investment Corporation. Its purpose was to guarantee American investments overseas against loss, with the taxpayers paying the premiums on the insurance (25 million dollars per annum) and picking up the tab for losses in excess of OPIC ability to pay. The Senator pointed out that the seizure of American properties in Chile, numbering 27, only two of which have gone into the process of negotiation, found the resources of OPIC woefully short of payment requirements.

Subsequently it has been revealed that this type of operation had been going on for 20 years, with the super-secret Agency for International Development paying off the runaway American investors. It was also disclosed that OPIC had set up subsidiary corporations, which were engaged in loaning money to the super-rich investors, as AID appears to be going out of business. We believe this explains why such investors as Rockefeller, Seligman, Guggenheim and the National City Bank accepted expropriation of their Cuban properties with such magnanimity. They could have prevented the confiscation — one word from them would have stopped it. Instead, one of their agents, Herbert Matthews of the New York Times, was sent to Cuba to guarantee the success of Castro. And upon the occasion of Castro's first triumphal visit to the United States, he visited and addressed the organization in New York which had sponsored the Cuban mission of Mr. Matthews.

Congressman Passman of Louisiana has been making very serious charges against the Agency for International Development. Finally, in self-defense, the Agency has assured Congress that they have not spent all the money appropriated — that there is in fact between 15 and 18 BILLION dollars in the "pipe-line." Some folks profess to believe it, and some do not. Whatever the truth is, the money belongs to your generation. It is your heritage, which my generation has handled so carelessly.

Right Wing "Power Machine"

50 Years and NO PROGRESS
Maybe It's the "MACHINE!"

Just before Congress adjourned, it was discovered that in addition to building the "infrastructure" for the investments of the runaway U.S. corporations, the OPIC had gone into the loan business in cooperation with the Export-Import Bank and were then processing loans for some of the largest conglomerates in the world. For the purposes of the loan angle, OPIC had organized an affiliated branch or two. The Congressional Record of Dec. 15, 1971, page E-13504, tells of the Private Investment Co. for Asia, and lists the American directors:

Eugene Black — Vice President, Rockefeller's Chase Manhattan Bank; Emilio Collado, Executive Vice President, Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey.; Mark O. Feer — partner, Kuhn, Loeb & Co.; Jacques G. Maisonrouge — President I.B.M. World Trade Corp.; George S. Moore — Chairman of the Board, First National City Bank; Stanley de J. Osborn — partner, Lazard Freres & Co. and Rudolph A. Peterson — Chairman Executive Committee, Bank of America.

This sort of hanky-panky has been going on for the best part of this century, and is the reason that the producers have nothing but debt while the speculators, thieves and politicians live like kings.

If the Left Wing and the Right Wing ever get together, it will have to be on the basis of self-interest, and that self-interest must be based upon provable facts. None of this has anything to do with "Communism." It is basically economic — a fact realized at the turn of the century when economics students from Harvard organized the Intercollegiate Socialist Society for the purpose of overthrowing the government and disposing of the "Wolves of Wall Street." The movement enjoyed tremendous success until the wolves, completely terrified, sent an agent through the universities, recruiting the best brains of the I.S.S. for service to Wall St., government and education. The wolves now control all three. Their lineage can be traced without a break from Upton Sinclair to Dean Rusk and Secy. of State Rogers.

Rebelling students have realized that the people — the voters — have nothing to do with the SELECTION of candidates for the Presidency. They need to know just how the selection of candidates is made and who makes them.

There is a small (1450-member) and very select organization with headquarters in New York City where the candidates are selected for both major parties! This is the Council on Foreign Relations. They usually select from their own membership. Those selected will be polished up by the news media, which the C.F.R. also controls, and offered to the voters on election day. In 1960 all candidates except Barry Goldwater were members of the parent organization, and he was a member of an affiliate — the National Municipal League. Of the present crops of hopefuls, only Humphrey, McClosky and President Nixon are members whose names appear or have appeared in their annual reports. Eisenhower and Kennedy were members, but their names were not published during their terms of office. The 1952 report explains that the name of the President is not carried in their reports during his term of office.

The names of C.F.R. members involved in policy making and military action in connection with the Vietnam War indicate the influence, if not the actual responsibility for that war:

Dean Rusk, Robert McNamara, Averell Harriman, Henry Cabot Lodge, Gen. Maxwell Taylor, Gen. Edwin Lansdale, General Westmoreland, and Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker.

I have written a booklet dealing with the various phases of C.F.R. influence in government and war. It is not by any means a professional job, but it was written for the youth of the country, and will be mailed FREE to any one who requests it!
